Stamps Rep.
Would End
Death Penalty

STAMPS, Ark. (AP) — Rep.
Gladys Martin Oglesby of the 39th District said Thursday she expected to lead the effort to abolish the death penalty in Arkansas in the next legislative session.
Mrs. Oglesby, who represents Lafayette and Columbia Counties, said opponents of the death penalty had asked her help in past years, but that she had declined because she had not had enough experience in the legislature.
She said that now, in her third term, she feels she can carry the fight.
Mrs. Oglesby said she would heartened by Governor - elect Winthrop Rockefeller's comment earlier this week that he probably would seek to abolish
the death penalty.
Rep. Roy Galyean of Benton County has been the leader of the effort to abolish the death sentence in past years, but he

600 Negro Students Hit Businesses

By REX THOMAS
TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—About
least 13 businesses early today threw rocks and bottles in a noisy three-hour demonstration.

The outburst came after a white man was acquitted in the slaying of a Negro student from Tuskegee Institute.
Some of the Negroes, who officials said were from Tuskegee,
a predominantly Negro school,
told police they would be back.
Police said there were no
arrests.

Mayor Charles M. Keever said
demonstrators broke out windows, forced a door on a bank
with a crowbar, painted slogans
and did other damage in the demonstration. Keever said a window was broken in a state-
owned liquor store and the operator reported that a case of whisky was missing.

Alton B. Taylor, Tuskegee
public safety director, declined to speculate on the cause of the demonstration, which followed a rally in the City Square.

However, a Tuskegee Institute
civil rights leader, said the students were protesting the verdict of a murder trial in Opelika, 30
miles away.
In that trial, which ended
Thursday night, a Tuskegee
service station operator, Marvin Segrest, 69, was acquitted of murder charges in the shooting
last Jan. 3 of a Tuskegee student, Samuel Young Jr., 21.

Keever said no over - all estimate of damage had been made.
But he said it appeared to be more extensive than occurred
during a demonstration after Young's death last January.
Keever said a Confederate
statue on the square where the students rallied was covered with black paint, and the words
"black power" were written on the statue.

The "black power" slogan also
was found on sidewalks.
A jury deliberated 70 minutes
before acquitting Segrest on a second - degree murder indictment.

Water District Financing to Be Studied

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A committee of the Arkansas Legislative Council recommended Thursday the development of a method for regional water districts to finance initial work on distribution systems from federal reservoirs.

A water district must have money for the initial planning and construction before it can sell revenue bonds to complete and operate its system. The Agriculture Committee said the most immediate problem was
the Southwest Arkansas Water District, which has a contract with the Army Engineers to obtain water from the new Mill-
wood reservoir.

In other action, the committee recommended legislation
making the entire state a bird sanctuary. The Audubon Society seeks the legislation,
which would have no effect on the killing of predatory or game birds.

was defeated in his bid for re-election.
Mrs. Oglesby said she would seek to substitute "life imprisonment without possibility of parole" for the death penalty.

Rain, Snow Predicted for California

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain in extreme Northern California and snow in the mountains were predicted today
as the Central Valley digs out of the mud in flood-stricken sections where three lives were lost.

Damage is estimated in the millions of dollars in parts of the San Joaquin Valley and the Sierra Nevada where prolonged storms and flooding drove hundreds from their homes and stranded hundreds more.

Army helicopters Thursday
brought water, medicine and food to the small southeastern Tulare County town of Johnson-dale where 600 persons were isolated by washed out roads.

The bodies of three flood victims have been recovered.
There was a marked contrast in temperatures in the eastern
two-thirds of the nation.

Readings dropped from the 60s in Ohio to the 30s in northern Illinois and to below zero in northern sections of North Dakota and Wyoming to central Montana.

Cold continued in northeastern Wyoming and the Nebraska
panhandle. Temperatures dropped from a high of 47 in the Nebraska panhandle town of Chadron to 13 early today. Cas-per, Wyo., reported a drop from 35 to near zero.

Rockefeller Delayed by Plane Trouble

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) —
Governor-elect Winthrop Rockefeller arrived about 2 1/2 hours
late Thursday night for his scheduled speech to Southeast Arkansas legislators because one of the engines on his twin-engine jet plane froze briefly on a flight from New York.
Rockefeller said the engine
iced over near Memphis and that the pilot started to land
in Little Rock. The engine thawed, however, after the jet
lost altitude and the flight continued to Pine Bluff.
Rockefeller said he wasn't aware of the trouble until his pilot told him of it.

Space Treaty Hailed as a Forward Step

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — Some U.N. diplomats believe the new U.S.-Soviet agreement to ban war and weapons from outer space can open
the way to a pact to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

The agreement announced
Thursday by President Johnson was welcomed at the U.N. as a major breakthrough in a 10-year battle for an international legal code to govern space exploration.

"It is the most important arms control development since
the limited test ban treaty of 1963," Johnson said, referring to the earlier pact barring testing
in the atmosphere, which most nations have ratified.

He predicted the new treaty
would "prevent" warlike
preparations on the moon and other celestial bodies" while guaranteeing "free access to all areas and installations" in space.

Diplomats at the U.N. also viewed the agreement as a good omen for accord on another major issue now under negotiation
— a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons to nations that don't have them. No agreement on this is expected, however,
until the 17-nation disarmament
talks resume in Geneva early in 1967.

In announcing the agreement
from the Texas White House, Johnson expressed hope that the United States will be one of the first countries to ratify the space treaty.

The treaty, now in the hands of the 28-nation U.N. subcommittee on outer space that drafted it, must be approved
next by the General Assembly.
Quick approval is expected.
It will take effect when ratified by five governments, including the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States.

Basically, the treaty declares
the moon, other celestial bodies
and outer space to be free for exploration and use by all countries and subject to the national sovereignty of none.

It binds the signers not to install nuclear weapons on celestial bodies, place such weapons in orbit around the earth or otherwise station them in space. It bans military bases, installations, fortifications, nuclear weapon testing and military maneuvers on celestial bodies.

It leaves unanswered, however, the controversial question
of the use of space for spying.
It also avoids a definition of outer space, a problem which the drafting committee agreed
should be left for further work
in the United Nations.

Mills Praises OEO Work in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—U. S.
Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.,
praised Thursday the administration of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Arkansas, but said he thought differently of it in Washington.

"Frankly, I had hoped for greater imagination and less confusion in administering the program," Mills said. "This program was not set up to create a lot of additional grandiose-type jobs."

Mills told OEO trainees that
the Arkansas OEO, which administers the anti-poverty war,
was blessed with "good leadership" and had set an example
of good administration.

In North Little Rock, Mills
told a civic club that the nation should avoid as much as possible "the imposition on this economy of an increase in our tax burden."

Mills said that no matter
what action was taken on taxes, the primary aim should be a balanced budget that included more adequate financing
of the Viet Nam war.

GOP Governors to Bolster Their Roles

By WALTER MEARS
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.
(AP) — Republican governors, demanding a party role to match their bolstered numbers,
went to work today to build an organization that could propel
one of them into the GOP presidential nomination.

Their potential leaders were not saying which one — although Michigan's Gov. George Romney clearly is the front runner among them, as he is in the public opinion polls.

Colorado Gov. John A. Love
and Rhode Island's John H.
Chafee, both seeking the chairmanship of the Republican Governors' Association, agreed that the 25 GOP state executives should seek to line up behind a single candidate for the White House.

With broad, if not unanimous agreement, Chafee told a joint news conference Thursday night, the governors can control
the selection of the party's 1968
candidate.

He said the governors also should work to make sure that the next Republican platform
embraces imaginative proposals
for "new solutions to the many old problems."

Chafee said the governors
should take an active role in the selection of their state delegations to the next national convention. And he said they should decide "early in the game" who they want nominated.

"I have no first choice now,"
he said.

Love said he believes the next
nominee will be a governor.
"We have an outstanding slate of governors," he said. He added that Republicans in Congress are trapped in a position
of minority opposition to administration proposals, which does not beset the governors.

isterial meeting in Brussels, Belgium, to prepare the report for France has shown hesitancy

ter.

If Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville fails to endorse the report, or bows out of discussion of it, it would indicate that France's attitude toward NATO as even a purely political body has grown extremely negative.

GOP Budget to Make Some Folks Unhappy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Governor - elect Winthrop
Rockefeller said Thursday night at Pine Bluff that he would make his budget recommendations Monday to the Arkansas Legislative Council and that some of them would
"make some people unhappy."

Rockefeller spoke in private to about 25 House and Senate
members from Southeast Arkansas after arriving too late to speak to the legislators' annual dinner. Trouble in one engine of his private twin-engine jet delayed his flight from New York, where he spoke earlier in the day.

The governor-elect said at
New York that the Republicans
"would be foolish" to bypass
his brother, New York Gov.
Nelson A. Rockefeller, as a possible candidate for the 1968
GOP presidential nomination.

At Pine Bluff, Rockefeller
told the legislators that recommendations he had been receiving had led him to make a conservative estimate of revenue the state could expect.

One reason for this, he said,
is the uncertain outlook of the national economy, leading him
to anticipate that Arkansas
sales tax revenues might fall off.

On another topic, Rockefeller
said patronage in his administration would be handled largely by Republican county committees. He added, however,
that he would not consult the Republican organizations in the counties "at the expense of the elected representatives."

Rockefeller told the legislators, all Democrats, he intended to "build a nonpartisan Arkansas," but added that "if you are going to build a party
you've got to use patronage."

He said this was the first time he has had to consider the question of how he will allocate
state jobs at the county level.
He promised the legislators,
though, that he would study the question further and issue a policy statement on it later.

Rockefeller also said he had asked Mrs. Patsy Ellis, secretary to Gov. Orval Faubus for 12 years, to serve in his administration. He said he hoped she would agree to stay at least
through next summer.

In New York, Rockefeller told

a news conference at the Ovaseas Press Club that he hadn't made a choice on his candidature for the GOP presidential nomination, but that Nelson Rockefeller should be considered. The governor - elect said he was aware that his brother had taken himself out of contention
but said he hoped he would reconsider.

"I heard him make the statements myself," Rockefeller said, "and I'm not in a position to question my older brother's statements. But there is no question that he has qualifications none of the others have, and the party
would be foolish not to re-
examine them."

He said many members of the Republican National Committee "represented the right wing" of the party, but he thought the GOP revival in the 1966 elections "definitely will be a damper on the strong ultraconservative wing."

Rockefeller said Arkansas
school integration program was being hampered by "bureaucrats" in the Health, Education and Welfare Department.
"It is difficult to run a school system when ground rules are constantly changed by bureaucrat in Washington," he said.

He also criticized President
Johnson's anti-poverty program.

MINIPANTS are the logical
answer to miniskirts, says
Mary Quant of London,
controversial mod designer.
The innovator of the mini-skirt says brevity of her dress creations has forced wear. This 'dress sells'

OH, SO TYPICAL — MARRIAGE DRIFT

Dear Helen: There's something missing in my marriage. I don't expect it to be an idyll, or even the romantic candle-glow of courtship, but I hoped for companionship, a shared joke over the supper dishes, a compliment now and then, mutual appreciation. Tim and I went to school together, dated for three years before we were married. I don't mind telling you I was glad to get away from an alcoholic home where there was constant fighting and tongue lashings. But we loved each other — he wasn't an "escape."

Maybe I'm difficult to get along with, a little selfish and self-pitying. But is it right that we must ALWAYS watch Tim's TV programs: regulate the furnace to suit his warm blood, even when I have a cold; go where he wants to go; spend what he wants to spend — while I do all the housework and also hold down a full-time job?

Even these wouldn't be so bad if he would show me he loves me. I'm told off when things I do aren't right, but never appreciated, never praised. He leaves his shorts on the floor, shirt on the door knob, shoes under the couch, then complains when the house is a mess. The only things he does for me are take the clothes to the laundromat on Saturdays, and empty the garbage under protest. He never brings me gifts. Honest, I'd settle for a bunch of ragweed — presented with a smile and a hug.

I'm really appreciated at my office, and there's one man (married) who shows more than appreciation. So far I've avoided him, but sometimes I want so badly to be noticed, I'm tempted. — WHAT TO DO

Dear What: You've described an all too typical case of "marriage drift." While your undemonstrative husband may have started it, I'll bet you haven't done much to change the course.

Have you perhaps traded hurt for hurt and slight for slight until each knows in advance how the other will react and just where the next wound will fester most?

When is the last time you brought Tim an unexpected present or gave him a compliment instead of a self-pitying sigh? Sometimes a woman must show twice as much appreciation to see half as much in return — but it's usually there and smart little wives learn to recognize it without words.

Before your marriage drifts on the rocks you should let a counselor tell you these things, or change the current yourselves with the kind of pillow talk that leads to understanding, not fights. — H.

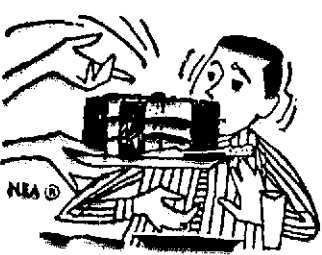

Dear Helen: My daughter has petit mal (mild epilepsy) which is almost under control. But she has no friends, boy or girl. It seems when people learn of her condition they drift away as if there was something to fear. She is 21.

Are there any clubs for handicapped people like herself, so that she won't be so alone? — MRS. T.

Dear Mrs. T.: The Epilepsy Foundation in your town can direct you to clubs for "handicapped" people, but your daughter should volunteer as a helper rather than enroll. Petit mal, almost under control, is not as handicap unless she sees it as one. With modern drugs, it could go unnoticed by most.

Has she considered a YWCA charm course, night school, social clubs church and, most of all, counseling therapy? I'm sure one or more of these can prove people will accept her — if she'll let them. — H.

House GOP Mapping Strategy

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leaders are mapping their 1967 domestic legislative program in a series of meetings with defense and economic experts, legislators and governors.

One session has been held, and four more are planned in the next two weeks.

The finished product will be unveiled by GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford in the Republican evaluation of the "State of the Union," expected to take place about a week after President Johnson's "State of the Union" Message. Congress reconvenes Jan. 10. No dates have been set for the President's major messages.

As was the case last year, Ford is expected to discuss domestic issues, such as inflation, the draft, taxes and government spending, while Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen analyzes foreign policy.

Some Republicans were critical last year when Dirksen outlined a Viet Nam policy close to the President's, but preparations are proceeding on the assumption the same format will be used.

The Republican leaders held one session here last week on federal-state relations. The GOP position in this area has already been detailed by Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House GOP Conference.

This is a tax-sharing plan under which a fixed percentage of tax revenues would be returned to the states, with an added amount going to poorer states. Two sessions are planned next week, one on defense policy and the other on crime and law enforcement.

Man 23, Held for Murder in Ohio

By ROBERT E. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A former mental patient has been arrested in the bludgeoning slaying of a nationally known church and civil rights leader.

William R. Minor, 23, who gave his hometown as Paintsville, Ky., was due in court today for a preliminary hearing on a first-degree murder charge. Deputy Police Chief Herman Beck described Minor as "a drifter type" who sometimes works as a painter.

He is accused in the slaying of Dr. Robert W. Spike, 43, ministry professor at the University of Chicago credited with a major role in bringing the church into the civil rights field.

Spike's body was found in a pool of blood last Oct. 17 in a guest room at the United Christian Center near Ohio State University. He had made a speech dedicating the interdenominational center the day before.

Beck said police were withholding details in the case as a result of recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions involving pretrial rights of prisoners. But he did disclose this much:

Early Wednesday, Minor stopped a police cruiser in downtown Columbus and told officers he had committed a burglary the night before at the Southeast Christian Church in Columbus.

He also said he had burglarized other churches, and had served time for one such offense in West Virginia.

Because of the church angle, Beck said officers decided to question Minor about the Spike case, which until Minor's arrest, had been an "absolute dead end."

The deputy chief said he was not at liberty to disclose details of the interrogation or reported motive but he added: "We came up with enough evidence that we felt we could charge him with first-degree murder in the death of Spike."

Beck said Minor apparently has been in the Columbus area ever since the slaying occurred but that he refused to tell them where he had been staying locally.

Records showed he was committed from Franklin County (Columbus) to the Columbus State Hospital on Sept. 9, 1964 and was a patient there until May 26 of this year. The hospital said it could not divulge the reason for Minor's commitment.

Lodge to Be Home Christmas

BOSTON (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, will be at his home in Frederick Flott, special assistant to Lodge in Saigon, told newsmen during a Boston visit Wednesday that Lodge will stay several days with his family over Christmas.

UN Working on Plan to Hurt Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — African members of the U.N. worked today on amendments to toughen a British resolution calling on the Security Council to invoke mandatory sanctions against most exports from rebellious Rhodesia.

Despite British Foreign Secretary George Brown's offer to include a limited ban on exports on oil to Rhodesia, it was believed the Africans would demand a total oil embargo. The British were certain to reject this because it would bring them into direct confrontation with South Africa, Rhodesia's chief source of oil and one of Britain's major economic partners.

The British resolution which Brown introduced in the 15-nation Security Council Thursday night called for an arms embargo against Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian government as well as sanctions against 12 Rhodesian exports.

Responding to the rising African clamor for an oil embargo, Brown said: "We have been consulting very widely, both before and since I came here and I appreciate the strong measure of support that exists for inclusion of oil in the mandatory sanctions."

Brown quickly made clear, however, that any oil embargo acceptable to Britain would have to be aimed at Rhodesia alone and not hit South Africa or any other third country.

If the British resolution is adopted, it will be the first time the Security Council has ever called for mandatory penalties against any state inside or outside the United Nations.

Liberty Bowl Saturday at Memphis

By BOB GILBERT

Associated Press Sports Writer MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Virginia Tech has faced one bad weather condition after another in preparing for Saturday's eighth annual Liberty Bowl football game here.

First, there were cold temperatures in Blacksburg, Va., then rain here Thursday forced the team to practice inside. Saturday, it will be the hurricanes of Miami.

Both teams plan brief workouts today.

Miami, carries a 7-2-1 record into the game, but is especially proud of having beaten three other bowl-bound teams — Georgia (Cotton), 7-6; Southern California (Rose) 10-7, and Florida (Orange), 21-16.

Tech has an explosive offense and Miami's defense was ranked fifth among the nation's major colleges.

Miami quarterbacks Bill Miller and David Olivo passed for 1,506 yards this season, and 225-pound end Jim Cox caught 41 passes.

The Liberty Bowl is being staged for the second straight year in the oval shaped Memphis Memorial Stadium, and officials expect a crowd of more than 40,000.

Six smaller bowl games also are scheduled Saturday, topped by the clash between San Diego State and Montana State in the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento, Calif. at 4:15 p.m., EST.

San Diego State, ranked No. 1 in the final Associated Press small college poll, enters the game with a 10-0 mark. Montana State, ranked third, is 8-2.

The game is one of four NCAA college division quarter-final round playoff games to be televised regionally by ABC.

The others match Tennessee State, No. 2, against Muskingum, No. 7, in the Granitland Rice Bowl at Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Parsons, No. 5, against North Dakota, No. 8, in the Pecan Bowl at Abilene, Tex., and West Chester State against Morgan State in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla. All start at 1:00 p.m., EST.

Figures the Packers and Dallas to Win

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer BALTIMORE (AP) — Green Bay should wrap it up in the Western Conference but Dallas may have to wait until the last day of the season to nail down the Eastern Conference title in the National Football League.

Boston starts on the first stop of a perilous two-game road trip, needing wins over both Houston and the New York Jets to be sure of finishing ahead of Buffalo in the Eastern sector of the American Football League. Kansas is keeping sharp with a game at Miami, having already won the Western title.

Here are the picks (all games Sunday unless otherwise noted):

NFL
Green Bay 24, Baltimore 20 (Saturday)—Colts in desperate spot, two games back with two to go. Packers came into same game last year, trailing by one-half game, but bombed Colts in the fog when Paul Hornung scored five times. Johnny Unitas was out last year but he is ready now, shaking off sore arm to beat Bears last week. Green Bay won Sept. 10 game 24-3 on key interceptions by Lee Roy Caffey and Bob Jeter.

Dallas 34, Washington 24—Cowboys on hot streak with four straight victories. Redskins coming off bye after 72-41 rout of New York. Dallas edged Washington 31-30 Nov. 13, blowing 21-6 lead when Sonny Jurgensen started hitting but winning on Danny Villanueva's field goal with 15 seconds to go. St. Louis 17, Atlanta 10—Cards still have mathematical chance but may be drooping after tough loss to Dallas. Falcons sky high after beating Vikings in the show. St. Louis has too much defense and Terry Nofsinger proved he could score last week.

Cleveland 31, Philadelphia 24—The Browns handled Eagles 27-7 on Nov. 13 when Philadelphia offense sputtered. Cleveland must win to stay alive

UCLA Will Try to Even With Duke

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer Can Lew Alcindor do it again for UCLA against Duke tonight?

The 7-foot-1½ inch sophomore, hailed as the greatest player in present-day college basketball, made an awesome varsity debut by scoring 56 points against Southern California last Saturday. Whether he can do it against the tougher Blue Devils from the Atlantic Coast Conference remains to be seen.

"We're not conceding UCLA anything," said Vic Bubas, Duke coach, before the Blue Devils left Durham, N.C., for the game at Pauley Pavilion on the UCLA campus in Los Angeles.

The Blue Devils, seventh-ranked nationally to the top-ranked Bruins in The Associated Press poll, would dearly love to repeat their two victories over UCLA last season.

The Duke triumphs by 82-66 and 94-75 last December when UCLA came East, started the Bruins on the downward path that cost them the national championship.

Meantime Johnny Wooden, UCLA coach, reported Alcindor would be up for the Blue Devils, although his right calf swelled somewhat after receiving an unintentional kick in the Bruins' 105-90 conquest of Southern California.

The impending battles of Duke and UCLA tonight and Saturday overshadowed the scare little Pan-American College gave Texas Western Thursday night before the national champions pulled it out 67-65 at El Paso.

Willie Cager, with 24 points, and David Lattin, with 22, sparked a comeback by the second-ranked Miners that erased an eight-point Pan American lead in the second half.

Fifth-ranked Houston, the only other team in the AP Top Ten to see action, also had trouble scoring an 89-81 home court triumph over Southwestern Louisiana.

Creighton, Memphis State and St. John's of New York downed major opponents on the road. Creighton spoiled Wichita's home opener with a come-from-behind 91-88 victory. Memphis State also rallied to beat Rice 83-54. St. John's defeated Holy Cross 77-60.

Defense Is Deadly Cat, Mouse Game

By WHITEY SAWYER

Associated Press Sports Writer DETROIT (AP) — In the lonely, violent cat-and-mouse world of a defensive halfback, faith in himself and the right mental attitude are a player's greatest need, said Dick Lebeau.

Lebeau, a defensive back for the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, said a corner-back "needs the right attitude. The defensive halfback is in a lonely spot. When you fail you let down 21 other guys."

"No one hates to see the opposition score worse than a defensive halfback. But you can't get down on yourself when it happens. You have to have some type of reservoir to say, 'Well it happened,' and go right on trying."

"You have to believe in yourself," he said. "After that," the 29-year-old, eight-year veteran said, "you have to be able to react quickly. You don't need flat-out speed as much as quick reflexes."

"And you have to think," said Lion defensive coach Carl Taseff. "I think Dick rates up with the good ones in the league."

Lebeau said he sometimes tries to set up a back. "You might let him think he can run a certain pattern on you and then you play it tough and come up with the interception."

"Of course, he tries to set you up, too. It's a cat and mouse game."

"You develop football instincts. Sometimes they try to make you think they're going to run one type of play, but, as William Shakespeare said, you sense 'something is rotten in the state of Denmark' and try to counteract it," he said.

The Ohio State graduate, a serious student of the defensive game, said, "The defense has to start from the goal line in."

"I try to guard against the deep one, first, if at all possible. If the receiver runs right and the pass is perfect, it's almost impossible to stop the short patterns."

"But on the long ball, if I have good coverage, I've got a good chance as he has to get the ball."

Maris Goes to St. Louis Cardinals

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee MacPhail, working feverishly over the shattered New York Yankees, continues to operate at his favorite market place — the National League.

The new Yankee general manager shipped Roger Maris and his $75,000 salary tag to St. Louis for third baseman Charley Smith Thursday.

It was MacPhail's second deal since being hired to help rebuild the Yankees, who finished the 1966 season mired in the American League cellar for the first time in 42 years. Ten days ago he swapped third baseman Cleto Boyer to Atlanta for outfielder Bill Robinson.

It was MacPhail, then working for Baltimore, who engineered the biggest inter-league trade of 1965 when he dealt three players to Cincinnati for Frank Robinson.

MacPhail can hardly expect the same kind of instant success for the Maris swap that Robinson brought to Baltimore. Smith is a journeyman third baseman who carries a lifetime batting average of .243.

It was an open secret that the Yankees were ready to unload Maris, who only five years ago broke Babe Ruth's record for home runs when he hit 61 in a 162-game season.

"I wasn't at all surprised," the slugging outfielder said after being told of the deal. "I rather expected it. In fact, I expected to be traded ever since 1962."

Smith, who has played for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Chicago White Sox and New York Mets as well as St. Louis, wasn't nearly as composed.

"I'll be darned," he exclaimed. "Maris, twice chosen the American League's Most Valuable Player, dominated baseball in 1961 with his blistering home run pace."

After his record-shattering season, he rocketed into baseball's higher salary class but his production slipped noticeably. He hit 33 homers in 1962, 23 in 1963 and 26 in 1964.

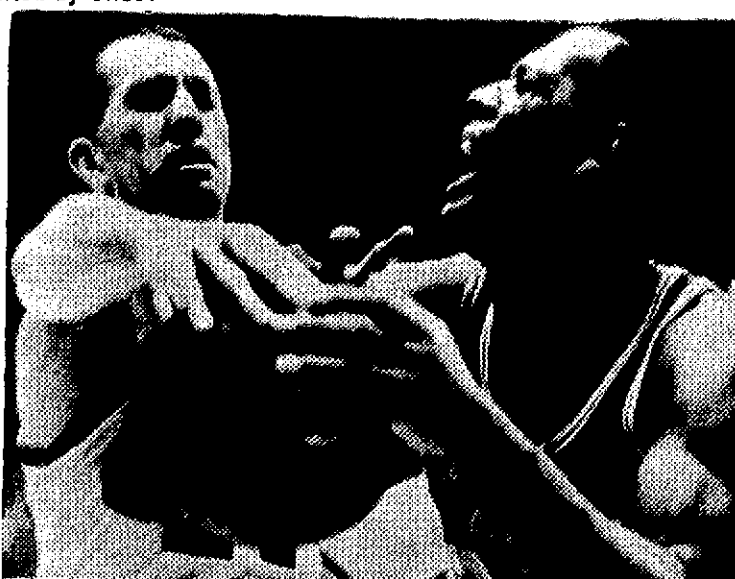

He was crippled by injuries through most of 1965, appearing in just 46 games and hitting only eight homers. He underwent surgery for the removal of bone chips at the base of his right hand after the season and played in 119 games last season, managing only 13 homers.

M&M Boys Power Hawks Into Front

Stan Mikita and Doug Mohns, Chicago's M and M boys, have powered the Black Hawks into a first-place tie with New York in the National Hockey League while Don Marshall continues to set a sizzling pace for the Rangers.

Mikita, the NHL's scoring leader, collected five points and Mohns scored three times Thursday night when the Hawks overwhelmed Boston 10-2. Marshall scored his 12th goal as the Rangers whipped last-place Detroit 4-2 in the only other game.

The results placed Chicago and New York in a deadlock for the top position with 25 points.

FACIAL EXPRESSIONS tell the story of two National Basketball Association moments. Los Angeles' Elgin Baylor (above) is fouled by Philadelphia's Larry Costello, and New York's Dick Van Arsdale is clobbered by St. Louis' Bill Bridges.

Two Hungry Golfers Shatter Par

By DON NORTH

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — A pair of gambling golfers and two hungry teammates who grew up in the game have shattered par by 17 strokes to lead midway through the richest tournament in golf — the PGA National Team Championship.

The teams of Babe Lichardus and Billy Farrell, Doug Sanders and Al Bessellink came home with second rounds of 62 Thursday for 127 and a two-stroke edge on the money kings of golf, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

The Nicklaus-Palmer combination and the team of Howie Johnson and Chris Blocker tied for second with 129 in the chase for the tournament's first prize of $50,000. Leaders after the first round with 63, Palmer and Nicklaus dropped back with a 66.

The sharpshooting Hebert brothers, Jay and Lionel, were three strokes off at 130. Bessellink, calling Sanders "the straightest shooter in the world," said the team was willing to take chances to win.

"We don't play safe," he said. "We've been playing together since we were amateurs and we know how to club each other (meaning give advice on what clubs to use)."

Farrell, son of former U.S. Open champion John Farrell, once shined clubs for Lichardus' father, who also is a professional. They also got 10 birdies and narrowly missed taking the lead alone when Lichardus came out of a bunker two inches shy of an eagle.

Farrell and Lichardus couldn't scrape up $5,000 between them with their earnings on the tour this year, and they are eager to rectify that situation here.

Oilers for Boston Patriots

They wear helmets instead of sideburns. They blitz instead of march. The flare-out is their weapon, not the sit-in. But Houston's youth still has a protest demonstration scheduled for Sunday.

They're ready to object to Boston's right to the Eastern Division title of the American Football League.

The Oilers' kiddie corps has little to gain when it meets the Patriots in the attraction of the day, but a victory would change everything in the title race.

Boston, 7-3-2, will take the field with a fractional lead over defending champion Buffalo, 8-4-1, and a victory would put the Pats one more triumph — against New York the following week — from the crown. A loss would give Buffalo a chance to wrap up the title against Denver Dec. 18.

The rest of the league also plays Sunday — Western Division champion Kansas City at Miami, New York at San Diego and Denver at Oakland. Buffalo has a bye.

Boston took the lead in the East by struggling by Buffalo's old pros 14-3 last Sunday, but it expects no easy time from Houston's kids.

Kansas City, 9-2-1, with the AFL's best offense and defense, has little left to prove until it meets the Eastern champ. Miami, 2-10, is trying to climb out of the cellar.

New York, 5-5-2, and San Diego, 6-5-1, both disappointments, are trying to finish a strong after mid-season slumps ruined their little chances.

Oakland, 7-5-1, attempts to hang onto second place behind Kansas City while surprising Denver, 4-8, seeks its fourth victory in five games and its best record since 1962.

Barry Puts on One Man Cage Show

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry's one-man performance kept the National Basketball Association's Western Division a one-team show Thursday night.

The sophomore forward, runaway scoring leader in the NBA, pumped in 50 points as he led the San Francisco Warriors to a 124-106 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in Phoenix, Ariz.

The triumph increased the Warriors' lead to 5½ games over the Hawks and left the San Francisco the only team in the division over .500 at 18-9. The Hawks missed a chance at a break even point and fell from second to third in the West 11-13.

In the only other game, Chicago pulled away to a 132-120 decision over Baltimore behind Howie Johnson, Guy Rodgers and Jerry Sloan in a struggle between last-place clubs in each division.

Barry, who hit 57 points earlier this season, scored his 1,000th point early in the first half as the Warriors built a 69-40 halftime bulge.

season by injuries, broke major league records by hitting eight homers in six consecutive games and hitting his career strikeout total to 1,500 by hitting 76 times. Mantle also tied the major league mark by hitting seven homers in five straight games.

Another major league record dusted off showed that American League clubs also set a major league high by having 11 managers during the season.

President Chester A. Arthur dedicated the Washington Monument in 1885.

No Christmas Passes
BERLIN (AP) - Acting Mayor Heinrich Albertz said Monday night there apparently will be no wall passes this Christmas unless there is a change in the attitude of the Communist East Germans.
Albertz, who is succeeding Willy Brandt, told a press dinner it will be a heavy blow for many families if there are no passes, "but even such a setback will not discourage us."
Since 1963, hundreds of thousands of West Berliners have received Christmas passes to visit relatives in East Berlin. Negotiations with the Communists broke off this year over the East German demand that a new pass pact recognize such things as East German titles

(NEA Telephoto)
JANE ANNE JAYROE, Miss America of 1967, got a chance to place a crown on the head of 5-year-old Donna Dill, the 1967 March of Dimes poster girl, in New York and seemed to enjoy the honor. Jane is a Laverne, Okla., native while Donna lives in Hillsboro, Tex.

AGAIN, THE OLD, OLD STORY

This Christmas, as in Christmas seasons past, the celebration of the birth of Christ will bring a welcome break in the monotony and horror of war for many American fighting men. These pictures provide a glimpse of what has gone on and what will occur this year.

Q—Where I work there are machines that allow ammonia fumes to escape into the offices. Is there any danger in breathing ammonia fumes continuously all day?

A—Although a heavy concentration of ammonia fumes following an industrial accident can cause severe poisoning, the worst that is likely to happen under the circumstances you describe would be irritation of the eyes and throat. Even so, a better ventilating system should be installed where you work for the sake of ordinary comfort.

Reservoirs Are Running Over

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP) — A year ago, Braintree, like many other New England communities, wasn't sure where its next drop of water was coming from.

Today, because of more rain and better water conservation measures, the reservoirs are spilling over.

Water Commission Chairman Thomas H. Matthews says with a grin:

"I recommend two baths a day this winter or we won't have any place to store the spring runoff."

HENNESSY'S BOUTIQUE

If you're rich, sentimental, and love your wife, togetherness gifts are what you'll want to buy for Christmas.

For this type of gift you can't beat Neiman Marcus. Neiman's "his and hers" items have enabled lovers in the past to drive matching cars, fly matching planes and this year to bathe in matching tubs. This may seem like togetherness in a big way. But don't forget the idea stems from Texas.

Now for the moneyed man who isn't all choked up with togetherness. Hess's in Allentown, Pa., is a spot where he can get a rare, expensive gift for his wife without having to get the same thing for himself.

Will she go for a reversible ranch mink raincoat? The gabardine shell is removable and simply leaves the mink with satin lining. Only $3,500.

Perhaps she's a putterer—likes to mend broken chairs and stuff. How about a tool box with a solid gold frame, decorated with sequins and pearls? This holds jeweled tools and a pair of work gloves and an apron in pure vicuna. She can shed the Rosie the Riveter image for one of Camille the Cabinetress for just $399.99.

Is she tired of those dreary supermarket shopping bags—every one the same? Get her her very own gold framed shopping bag beaded with rhinestones and pearls—a mere $250.

Does she have a pooch she adores? How about a split-level indoor doghouse of polished cherry wood with gold brackets and the family crest on the outside? It's lined in Persian lamb and on the walls are miniature framed animal paintings. It's a real buy at $119.

Perhaps her greatest ambition is to have the poshest Christmas tree on the block. Hang it with mink and jeweled ornaments sprinkled with silver dust. And be sure the stocking you fill for her is of mink and cashmere. Nothing's too good at yuletide, remember? Ornaments, $9.95 each, stocking $49.95.

For the wife who is an avid weight-watcher, New York's Hammacher Schlemmer suggests an electronic computer that can calculate how much weight one gains even after one meal and also indicates what food caused the fluctuation—all for $25.

If your spouse never outgrew her childhood love of playing in the bathtub but feels she has outgrown toy boats, this same emporium offers a swivel chair that fits all types of bathtubs. This allows the bather to swing outside the tub or rotate above the water like a sea gull. Then it lowers back into the bath. It works by water pressure, not electricity, and it's only $285.

If she likes flowers and hates to see them die, Tiffany offers a gilded flower in a pot for just $90. The single blossom stops short of ostentation for the pot is just clay.

And then there are the fashion gifts. If she complains about having to wear the same old pin all the time, give her one with interchangeable centers—one is sapphire, one emerald, another, ruby. Only $14,500 at Tiffany.

Everything sparkles this year. You'll find costume pendant earrings that glitter like the chandeliers at the new Metropolitan Opera and tickle her shoulders at the same time.

Right down Fifth Avenue from Bergdorf's to Lord & Taylor glitters turns up in items from stockings to hair ornaments at prices that run from moderate to prohibitive. But you have to hand it to Los Angeles for coming up with the most glowing fashion item of all.

What's Happening

Is Christmas

By DAVID POLING
Consultant on Religion
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Several years ago I asked my children what they'd like for Christmas and, without hesitation, they chimed:

"We'd like to go to Kansas City."

I could understand Disneyland or Paris or even Miami Beach, but Kansas City?

The reasons were pretty sound. I was a busy pastor struggling to keep up with the activity and pressures of a large congregation. The crushing schedule of Yuletide had started—a Couples Club party, caroling by the junior choir, the annual college dinner, and the church school pageant. Right at this point the kids pressed for their own Christmas truce—Kansas City for Christmas.

They had a strong argument. First of all a trip to Kansas City would mean a ride on the train. Our youngsters had been on a train a couple of years earlier and hoped to repeat the excitement and fun of a cross-country journey. But more than this, a train trip with their parents would mean freedom from the telephone, distracted conversations, hurried meals and late evening meetings. The family, train-bound, would be together for more than a few fleeting moments.

Kansas City was about as far as we could go. To the family it meant a happy return—to the Paseo Plaza, that unique shopping center with its Spanish decor, quaint shops, toy stores and ice cream parlors.

In this manner, our youngsters were saying that Christmas was an opportunity for new and exciting changes to find meaning in our life together. I believe they are right. Unhappily, the whole Advent season, with Christmas at the center, has become a drag in many lives and for many families. The reasons are obvious.

Take the Christmas card thing. The Christmas card is about as personal as a gas bill. Your name stamped in gold just depresses me. Are cards mailed from no one to nobody? And those long lists of names, increasing from year to year out of fear of forgetting someone. So everyone receives Christmas greetings and mentally we check off the names as received. Before long some people will be sending receipts.

Feeling, sentiment, affection—these are absent or unexpressed. Why send cards?

And worse. The card has become a weapon, a flexing of the ego. Here is one that someone mailed me recently with a clever shot of the family—waving from the steps of the Kremlin! Another envelope reveals a sprawling ranch house with "our own view of the Pacific and Merry Christmas, by the way." Another skips entirely all Christmas references and gives a wide angle picture of a stable, not of the Holy Family, but of the stalls for the "quarter horses that we rode in the Virginia Hunt Club Review."

Has giving become a lost art? I will be specific here. Don't have your secretary pick out a tie and mail it to me. Do not give me a gift certificate from a faceless department store. One orange, wrapped by you, is worth a crate from an unknown grove in Florida. Do you see what has happened to Christmas? The giving from me to you is gone. The feeling, the personality of your life and existence has expired when your company sends me a present right out of the supply house catalogue.

Christmas is a great "happening" because God entered the world through a personal life—Jesus Christ. The celebration of this amazing and thrilling event comes alive over and over again when we recover the vitality of honest personal relationships. It is not too late. Follow these directions right now:

- Reduce the number of personal gifts in the family but select them with more thoughtfulness and consideration. When in doubt ignore the television toy commercials. Better spend 50 per cent of the family Christmas money on an event. Cut out the routine of bleary open houses and New Year's headaches and take in a concert, symphony, play, gallery, religious pageant. Maybe an overnight trip to the country or vice versa to the city—Kansas City!

- Get off the greed hook. Spend at least 10 per cent of the Yule till on specific and immediate charity. Not only the church and the usual charities around town but individuals in an obvious bind. Open your eyes to a real need and then open your wallet.

- Every card sent has a personal handwritten note. You will write fewer cards and enjoy it more. Lay off the pictures of "our new yacht" or A-frame summer home or photograph of the sailfish you caught in Bermuda. Remember your family and friends love you anyway and want to hear from you without the sky writing.

- Read the Christmas story in Luke or Matthew alone. Think about the meaning of peace and what efforts we all might make to change the course of our warfare society. God gives us the birth of His Son so that we might know the meaning of world family. For 2,000 years He has given us Christmas—the best happening of all.

Incidentally, we never did get to Kansas City that year. We, too, were caught up with the Christmas rush. But we'll get there. That's a promise.

length gown covered entirely with light bulbs?

Attached to this is a 60-foot electric cord so the lady can walk around at her own party but can't run out on it. She will be plugged into a wall outlet.

We won't trouble with the designer's name. For this could be a shocking gift.

Aspirin Can Help Prevent Sunburn

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Aspirin can help prevent or lessen sunburn, two dermatologists report.

J. Graham Smith and W. Stacey Miller of the University of North Carolina said aspirin taken 30 minutes before exposure to the sun and periodically afterward reduced skin inflammation.

New Cabinet for Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rashid Karami, Lebanon's new premier, formed a 10-man Cabinet today without including any members of Parliament.

Karami, premier in 1953-64 and in 1965, turned to ambassadors and leaders in various fields after he was unable to get parliamentary approval for a Cabinet drawn from the Chamber of Deputies.

George Hakim, head of the Lebanese delegation to the United Nations, was named foreign minister.

Karami was asked to form a new government by President Charles Helou after Premier Abdullah Yaffi resigned last Friday. Yaffi had been criticized for the closing of the Intra Bank, tribal strife, and Saudi Arabia's threat to break off relations over what it charged was hostile Lebanese policy.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Jean Arthur Show," only 12 episodes old, departed from network television Monday night — a comedy series that had everything except comedy scripts.

Miss Arthur, who can do more with a bright line than most actresses, struggled and clowned gallantly, but no one could overcome the handicap of those dreary stories.

The final show, like the others, was given a glossy and professional production. But just when some substance was needed from the plot, everything fell into a ridiculous heap.

The plot of the final show had something to do with Mrs. Marshall — played by Miss Arthur — and her son — Ron Harper — quarrelling and breaking up their law partnership. This in turn led to having them on opposite sides in a murder trial.

So far, so good, but when Miss

Pioneer Village Toy Shop in Minden, Nebraska

A part of the Harold Warp Pioneer Village Toy Shop in Minden, Nebraska showing some of the doll collection, tricycles, early circus parade caravan, old doll buggies; just a few of the toys on display at the village.

From the dawn of time, the middle ages to modern times, toys have been synonymous with youngsters. As an adult you probably wonder, as you watch your child unwrap his Christmas toys, what kind of playthings Santa brought to children in centuries past.

Egyptian, Greek and Roman children were the proud possessors of toys, explained the management of the Harold Warp Pioneer Village, at Minden, in south central Nebraska, where one of the largest collection of toys is on display in an Early American Toy Shop.

Throughout the years in the tombs of children of royalty, archeologists have discovered dolls, soldiers and other toys made of wood, pottery and metal that vividly portrayed that area.

The Greek and Roman children of early Christian times were often given wooden puppet-dolls, skillfully made, with jointed, movable limbs—and a hole in the head. A string passed through this hole, connecting the arms and legs, transforming the doll into a marionette.

Christmas meant a new supply of rattles and toys for tots in the middle ages. Through the 12th and 13th centuries, little girls who requested dolls for Christmas usually had to settle for crude clay models. However, little boys of the era "when knighthood was in flower" received toy horses and knights as gifts.

Children of Noble birth received royal treatment when it came to gifts. History records a sizeable payment made to a goldsmith for repairing a toy wind-mill given to a certain Princess Isabella of France during the 14th century.

Craftsmen of the 16th century were paid high prices by aristocrats to fashion exquisite toys from precious metals and stones for their children. Among the delights that these "bluebloods" found in their stockings were: soldiers made of silver and gold, while the little girls were known to receive perfect miniatures of household furniture or utensils for their "baby houses"—the doll house of that era.

During these periods, Christmas toys were branching off in still other directions. The first crude mechanical toys appeared as early as 1000 A.D. These were eventually equipped with clockworks during the 17th century by the toymakers of Nuremberg, Germany who were fast becoming famous for their dolls.

The unlikely pioneer of mass-produced clockwork toys was a French sailor who took part in the sea battle with Napoleon at Trafalgar.

Ever since little boys staged mock battles with their toy knights and horses as part of their training for knighthood, educational toys have been a part of the childhood toy scene.

During the 17th century little girls were the recipients of precision made German toy kitchens ordered for them by their far-sighted parents. These contained miniature pieces of kitchenware and cooking utensils in copper, pewter and wood. Somewhat later English toy makers turned out miniature one-roomed houses; shops such as butcher, tailor and bakery shops especially for boys.

In pre-Revolutionary times in the American colonies, Colonial lasses played with dolls of stuffed cloth or kidskin which were topped with china heads imported from France.

Pioneer "missiles"—who made the trek westward in Conestogas—showed their affection on crude dolls made from materials on hand such as corn cobs, husks, as well as straw or rag dolls.

But no matter what the age or era, toys reflect the important advances made in the use of materials before they became popular. To illustrate this, for example, between 1850 and 1900, more than 200 different mechanical banks were made to induce thrift in the younger generation. However, these banks would not have been possible if casting iron into thin sections had not been perfected shortly before the introduction of these toy banks.

From early Egyptian dynasty to contemporary times, toys have previewed the metals and materials that were fast becoming popular. Even before steel became important for its variety of uses, it was first used in toys. This was true of rubber and plastic, as they were subsequently developed.

Today, space program products that must withstand extremes in heat and cold are being pre-tested for their durability by youngsters. One manufacturer pre-tested TV remote control by having a toy boat built for his young son to experiment from shore.

Toys of a bygone era that reflect American history have been gathered at the Harold Warp Pioneer Village at Minden in south central Nebraska. In addition to a complete toy circus there are displayed the complete evolution of toy tricycles, wagons, and dolls of all kinds, (including rag, straw and corn cob dolls) as well as many other toys once so dear to a young master or mistress.

Today, thousands of toys are introduced annually, yet of these only a few survive to go on for another year. However, of all toys in history one seems to have captured the hearts of youngsters of more than one generation; this is the "Teddy-Bear" named after our President Theodore Roosevelt. Remarkably, the "Teddy-Bear" is still around today.

usual, in the top spot, followed by CBS' "Lucy Show," CBS' Jackie Gleason Show, Andy Griffith Show and Green Acres, NBC's Bob Hope comedy special with Bing Crosby, CBS' Beverly Hillsbillies and NBC's Saturday Night at the Movies completed the list of most popular shows in the two-week period ending Nov. 20.

CBS led NBC in the Nielsen averages by the narrowest of margins—one-tenth of one percent — with ABC trailing almost three points. Most popular new series was ABC's "Rat Patrol" in 27th position, CBS' "Family Affair," 31st and NBC's "Tarzan," 32nd. Recommended tonight: "Hurok Presents," CBS, 9:30-EST, musical salute to the Inpresario, with solos by Van Cliburn, Isaac Stern and Andre Segovia and narrated by Marj Anderson.

Arthur and Harper had their courtroom scene, the supposed-ly invincible lady lawyer dissolved into a series of sentimental daydreams that had her adult son conducting the prosecution in various phases of his life, from infancy on. It was so bad that even the laugh track sounded embarrassed.

Next week the spot will be filled by "To Tell the Truth," a day-time panel game that has been around for years.

The season has been a rough one for some very big star names. Miss Arthur, Milton Berle and Garry Moore have received midseason cancellations, and Danny Kaye limps off at the end of the season — all victims of bad ratings.

The mass television audience may not always agree with the critics in its choice of programs, but it obviously knows what it likes. On the night last month when Red Skelton's "Clown Alley" special pre-empted Kaye's Wednesday night hour on CBS, it attracted an audience almost twice as large as Kaye did a week later.

Skelton occupied two positions in the Nielsen top 10 released Monday. "Clown Alley" was in third place and Red's regular Tuesday night hour was in fourth. NBC's "Bonanza" was, as

Enthusiasm Wanes When Even Biggest Job Is Completed

Next to the war-time Southwestern Proving Ground the largest project in southwest Arkansas' history is Millwood Dam and Reservoir, whose dedication program yesterday drew a relatively slim crowd—between 50 and 1,000.

A much larger crowd attended groundbreaking ceremonies several years ago—but that's how it goes: There are always more folks with you at the beginning than when the job winds up. It was a good show, at the dedication, George W. Peck of Texarkana and Hope, president of the Southwest Arkansas Water District, opened the dedication program, then turned it over to U. S. District Judge Oren Harris, former long-time Congressman of the old Fourth District. Judge Harris as a congressman generally is credited with working out the compromise between downstream and upstream factions which cleared the way for construction of Millwood—as all of you know who attended the Red River Valley Association's Millwood Breakfasts the last several years.

But Judge Harris gave the major share of the credit to Senator John L. McClellan, who drew his powerful seniority position into a fight to build Millwood for his home state. Senator McClellan, the main speaker at the dedication, made a humorous rebuttal to Judge Harris' praise, giving a brief lecture on the art of horse-trading in Capitol Hill.

It was all very jovial—but in sharp contrast to the long and bitter disagreement that preceded Millwood's actual construction. For years the Red River Valley Association was split by the controversy between downstream interests which wanted a single large dam, and Oklahoma, which demanded a series of small dams instead.

Agreement was reached through a compromise which reduced Millwood only slightly and provided a series of smaller dams upstream on Little River. The men who led this successful fight were actually "on stage" yesterday's dedication—and it was a thrilling moment, one you would have enjoyed had you been there, one that deserved a far larger crowd than actually appeared.

People are appreciative of great public works, of course, and history will show Millwood to be one of southwest Arkansas' most important—but even a Millwood can't guarantee to turn out the crowd it deserves... when the job is all over.

U.S. Expecting War to Get Worse With 10,000 Dead in Year McClellan Speaker at Dedication

ASHDOWN, Ark. (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., dedicated the $43 million Millwood Dam and Reservoir Thursday and defended the project against any critic that might call it "pork barrel."

"The critics may gripe, but as for me and my people, we are going to continue to develop the great resources of this nation," McClellan said.

The senator said the flood control and water supply benefits that will be derived from Millwood would exceed $2 million in addition to recreational benefits.

He also pointed out that the project had attracted a $46 million Nekoosa - Edwards paper mill to the area that "wouldn't have come and couldn't have come without this water."

McClellan said the United States had been "stupidly" spending large sums of money abroad "to get friends that when you get them you can't keep them."

"Where are those friends today?" he asked. "Where are those friends who have gotten billions (of dollars) from us? I would rather spend it (money) here at home where we can see the tangible benefits—where we know it's doing good—rather than squander it abroad on people we cannot depend on in our hour of need."

The giant Millwood project is the first of seven units to be completed that will prevent flooding in the Red River basin. The dam is on the Little River about 10 miles east of Ashdown.

Those attending the dedication included Gov. Orval Faubus, U. S. District Judge Oren Harris, Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., Rep.-elect John Paul Hammerschmidt, an Arkansas Republican, and Lt. Gen. William Cassidy, chief of the Army Engineers.

Cassidy said the reservoir would provide a dependable supply of good water for municipal and industrial use in southwest Arkansas and contribute to the area's economic growth.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States expected a far bloodier Viet Nam war, it was learned today.

Indications are the Pentagon prepared for the worst, anticipating perhaps 10,000 dead this year and five times as many wounded.

Casualties have been much lower although still running into staggering numbers—over 4,600 killed and 30,000 wounded the past 11 months.

A top source said that when the Pentagon began planning the big military buildup in Southeast Asia statistical studies were conducted which projected U.S. losses at 200 casualties per day per 100,000 men.

The figure, derived from experience in World War II and the Korean conflict, was needed to determine possible replacement and medical demands.

Simply stated, the computerized calculation showed the United States could expect for each 100,000 men in Viet Nam to sustain daily 10 combat deaths, 50 wounded and 140 "nonhostile" casualties resulting from accident, disease or other causes.

Actual figures have averaged 3 killed, 14 wounded and 75 non-hostile losses per day per 100,000 men, this source said.

Averages are rather meaningless, however, when it comes to describing the toll of life due to the war.

Defense Department statistics show that since Jan. 1, 4,639 Americans have been killed in Viet Nam, running the count since Jan. 1, 1961 to 6,236 as of last Saturday.

This does not include 1,436 men who have died in plane and helicopter accidents, and from disease or other causes not attributable to enemy action.

A different view of Pentagon figures also shows the ratio of American combat deaths to wounded running much lower proportionately than during World War II and Korea.

The 35,538 wounded and 6,236 killed the past six years form a ratio of better than 5 to 1.

In Korea it was about 3 to 1 with 103,284 wounded and 33,629 killed in three years fighting.

In World War II the ratio was over 2 to 1: 292,000 killed, 670,800 wounded.

The Pentagon says that due to better and more readily available medical treatment, 98.4 per cent of the GIs wounded in Viet Nam recover. This compares with 97.5 per cent during Korea, 95.5 per cent in World War II and 92 per cent in World War I.

Explosion Rocks Saigon, No Casualties

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A sharp explosion rocked Saigon tonight and authorities reported it erupted after a Vietnamese militiaman guarding a main bridge fired at a suspicious object floating on the Saigon River.

There was no report of casualties or of damage to the bridge, the Highway 1 rail-and-road bridge leading from Saigon north to Bien Hoa.

Officials said bridge guards spotted a large object camouflaged with weeds floating on the river 400 yards north of the bridge on the northern edge of Saigon.

They fired at the object and it exploded with a blast that rattled windows in the center of the capital two miles away.

Officials said later the object was a floating mine.

Shortly after the explosion, small-arms fire was heard in the vicinity but this was reported to be harassing fire by Vietnamese troops in the area to suppress a possible Viet Cong attack.

An hour after the blast, U.S. officers said there were no casualties and no damage was caused.
